

The Scanned Chapter

This page was rasterized to an image, so it has no text layer at all. The application must use optical character recognition to read this text before it can translate it into another language.

Figure 1: A solid blue rectangle

Second Scanned Page

Older books are often digitized as photographs. Each page is just a picture of the original paper. Version two of this application can now handle these documents thanks to the built-in OCR engine.

Figure 1: A solid blue rectangle